

RAMLÖSA NATURAL MINERAL WATER

Every product of Ramlösa contains water that has traveled for 70 years. Drop by drop, the water has made its way down from the ground to the spring 90 meters deep. Along the way, it is purified through layers of sandstone, clay, coal, and sand.

Natural mineral water is a so called protected designation under the Food Act. The water must come from a well protected underground source and have the correct chemical composition. It should simply be natural enough. Nothing may be added to or removed from natural mineral water, except for carbon dioxide. So Ramlösa has a refreshingly good taste, with minerals and salts naturally present from the start. Ramlösa flavored waters cannot be called natural mineral water, but they are made from the same fine water, and we have only added natural flavours.
